

What you need to be successful are the skills of creativity and being able to draw from one kind of knowledge and put it in with something else and make something new

Professor Peter o'Connor

Director of Centre for Arts and Social Transformation at the University of Auckland

